Updated Pinnacle Web Site Delivers More Options for Residents

Seattle, Washington – An updated Web site is improving communication between apartment residents and Pinnacle, an American Management Services Company.

Pinnacle manages multi-family residential communities across the United States. The individual communities now have their own Web site links from the Pinnacle site, www.pinnacle Realty.com. Residents can access an online portal to pay rent, make service requests, schedule community facilities, view newsletters and more.

Prospective residents can use the links to individual properties to check availability and pricing, and learn more about a specific community. The popular “Find a Pinnacle Property” link is now readily available from every page.

Visitors to Pinnacle’s updated Web site also will find it easier to learn more about the company’s extensive property management and investment services.

The new site launched February 1; Flash elements will be added in March.

Two more features are in the works for the next phase of Pinnacle Web site developments. Employees will have a direct link to the company-wide intranet, and clients will have a portal to specific information about their Pinnacle-managed properties.
